Dear Sir,

I understand that you have requested an MSDS for Office Depot Premium Ink Jet Paper (item 751381) manufactured by International Paper. The OSHA Hazard Communication Standard, 29 CFR 1910.1200, is intended to ensure that the hazards of all "hazardous chemicals" be identified and that this information, along with information on protective measures, be passed along to users in the manufacturing sector and their employees. The MSDS is the vehicle to convey this information.

OSHA realized that requests would be made for MSDS's on materials not readily classified as "hazardous chemicals." The product that you inquired about, Office Depot Premium Ink Jet Paper (item 751381) manufactured by International Paper is considered articles by OSHA's definition in paragraph (c) of the standard:

Article means a manufactured item other than a fluid or particle

- (i) which is formed to a specific shape or design during manufacture,
- (ii) which has end-use function(s) dependent in whole or in part upon its shape or design during end use, and
- (iii) which under normal conditions of use does not release more than very small quantities, e.g., minute or trace amounts of a hazardous chemical (as determined under paragraph (d) of this section [of the hazard communication standard]) and does not pose a physical hazard or health risk to employees.

All of the copy paper made by International Paper will not release hazardous chemicals under normal conditions of use and falls under this article exemption. Therefore, no MSDS is required.

If you should have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
